This image is from series done several years ago in the off-season here in Provincetown. The series reflects the peaceful quiet of an emptied town; expressive of the solitude and beauty as the summer population dwindles and the air becomes crisp. The time of year that i love the most here.

Midge Battelle, a native of Worcester, Ma., is a photographer and painter , living year round in Provincetown, Ma. She received a BFA from Massachusetts College of Art in Boston, Ma. and is represented by AMP Gallery in Provincetown. Her work is in many private collections as well as in the collection of PAAM here in Provincetown.
